Welcome to IWM London

Imperial War Museums is the world's leading museum of war and conflict. Founded while the First World War was still raging, it gives voice to the extraordinary experiences of ordinary people forced to live their lives in a world torn apart by conflict.

From the moment you step into the iconic atrium, to the countless discoveries awaiting you in the award-winning galleries, IWM London examines the continuing influence of war on our world.

First World War Galleries

Discover the story of the First World War through the eyes of the British people and the Empire, both on the home front and the fighting fronts. On display are objects from IWM's collections including weapons, uniforms, diaries, keepsakes, film and art.

Second World War Galleries

Across the globe millions of people from the United States to Europe, Asia, and Africa were affected by the devastating events of the Second World War. Through personal objects, military equipment and first-hand diaries and letters, discover how societies were mobilised to fight a 'total war' that would change the world.

Special Exhibitions

Visit our changing programme of special exhibitions, which tell engaging stories of conflict through art, objects, photography, film, and sound. Speak to our staff and volunteers to find out what's on today or sign up to IWM e-News to keep up to date about forthcoming exhibitions.

The Holocaust Galleries

During the Second World War the Nazis and their collaborators murdered two-thirds of Europe's Jewish population. In some parts of Europe this represented the complete annihilation of entire households and communities. The devastating impact of these events continue to shape today's world. These galleries provide an account of how it happened.
